Access instructions for partner institutions

To access Roehampton’s online resources, e.g. databases and ebooks you will be required to authenticate access. Almost all of our resources use a system called OpenAthens to enable institutional login.

You may come across a variety of different screens indicating that you need to log in with OpenAthens. Below are some examples of screens that you are most likely to see. The EBSCO Support screen below is what you are most likely to see.

Click on the Athens/OpenAthens link to log in

Do not log in here
On the OpenAthens screen use the “Find your organisation” box to search and select the University of Roehampton.

You will then be presented with the Roehampton log in screen. Enter your Roehampton login followed by @roehampton.ac.uk (e.g. john.smith@roehampton.ac.uk) and your password to proceed. Once you have signed in to OpenAthens once, you should not have to sign-in again when moving between different OpenAthens resources.
